

ADDRESS BY THE PRESIDENT TO THE NATION

9:04 P.M.

THE PRESIDENT:

People of Arimus,

It is with great pride I now take on this mission to lead you through this political jungle. It has been too long since you all felt the politicians' hunger for growth of this nation.

That era of discontent ends now.

(Pause)

With your support, I will gradually put this long forgotten island on the world map. We are once again going to be a shining star in the Pacific Ocean, independant from the world's suppression.

(Pause)

My mission as your chosen leader is not only to represent you internationally, but also to care for each and everyone of you. Not only as a politician, but also because I see myself as your friend.

I promise that I will always lead you with a good heart. Always lead you through storms that might come our way. Always be there for you.

Remember this; I am your friend.

(Pause)

Thank you all, and may the Arimusian wave of enlightenment stream through you.

(END)
