11:36 A.M.

THE PRESIDENT:

Students, families and members of the faculty,

Today is the day you all have been waiting for. The day when you graduates step out into the real world and begin to contribute to our society.

(Pause)

Now you all have the world at your feet. A new journey has just begun.

I'm sure that many of you will use all this knowledge for the good of this nation. Some of you will probably lead this country some day.

(Pause)

But one thing I am definitely sure of: You will make me proud.

(Pause)

Good luck, and may knowledge lead you forward.

Thank you.
